

FAMILY PICTURES

Coming Up Later In March....

Our next big adventure will be in South Carolina. We'll be visiting Chuck's family there during part of the seminary's Reading Week - and several of our Oregon relatives will be making the trip out at the same time.

Don't Forget!

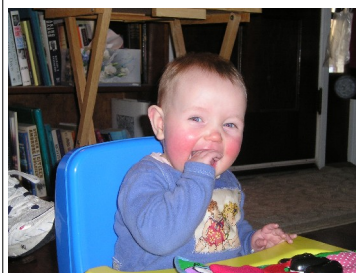

We love visitors!!!

Come while you still can.

FRANCES & KATHERINE TURN 8 MONTHS

Our month started with a trip to emergency room for Liz (those inner-ears will always come back and get you). Granny Alice got on the first flight available and rushed to St. Louis to help out Liz and the twins. For a couple of days Liz couldn't drive. Alice has been busy cooking, cleaning, and staying up most nights with the twins. She'll leave on March 12th for a business trip to England. We've been lucky to have mild weather since she arrived. Liz is back on her feet.

Mom and Dad out on the town with the twins

Granny Alice is seen here with Frances. Both the girls have been happy to have their grandmother around. We've all been amazed at how much they've grown even over the last two weeks.

Katherine (right) shows us how to sit up and give a little smile all at the same time. It won't be long before they start walking!!!

FAMILY & FRIENDS

Andrew Stelzer, a former colleague of Chuck's from Portland, stayed with us one-night in March. Andrew, now a reporter for a Florida radio station, was here covering the Taco Bell Boycott. The 4-year boycott—endorsed by the United Church of Christ—ended the next week. Visit Chuck's blog for more information. We're hoping to see Andrew again later this Spring .

We've found the fastest way to both do laundry and bathe the children is to do it all at the same time. In this picture Frances and Katherine have just gotten out of the dryer—and besides a little static-cling—they look great.
